

Residents Of Poconos Dig Away Winter's Top Storm

RESIDENTS of the Poconos yesterday began digging themselves out from under the winter's worst snow storm. Sub-freezing temperatures and biting winds complicated the job.

Late last night, the Monroe County headquarters of the State Highways Dept., reported all main roads open.

Some secondary roads had been plowed, a spokesman for the department said, and the remainder are expected to be cleared today.

Clear Up Jam

The department said there were some problems with drifting on secondary roads.

About 7:15 p.m., a traffic jam developed on Route 611 north of Tannersville where ice formed on the highway. A cinder truck was dispatched to the scene.

The 21-inch fall, as recorded here by William Hagerty, U. S. Weather Bureau observer, was the worst since March 20, 1958, when 26 to 28 inches fell.

At times during the daylong storm, highways in all parts of the area were either closed entirely or open to only limited travel.

Nightmare Hill

Foxtown Hill, south of the Stroudsburg borough line, was a nightmare as heavily-laden tractor-trailers jackknifed or became stalled, blocking traffic lanes.

At times, the line of waiting cars and trucks extended four miles from the hill.

Smaller jams developed on other highways. Many cars skidded into ditches or got stuck in drifts in driveways.

Schools, many factories and some businesses remained closed yesterday.

Throughout the state, at least 16 deaths were attributed to the storm, which dumped 31 inches of snow on Hazleton and Jim Thorpe and 30 inches on Phillipsburg in Centre County.

Majority Open

All main roads and most secondary roads were reported open although travel was at reduced speeds. Bus, airplane and railroad services were near normal.

Hotels in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, as were those in the Poconos, were jammed Thursday night with stranded motorists.

Northeast Still Staggers Whipping Gale In Years

NEW YORK (AP)—The Northeast, most populous area in the country, still staggered Friday under the worst winter gale in more than a decade. Savage winds and drifting snow paralyzed New England.

Civilization's roar dwindled to a whisper along the heavily stricken coast. Business came to a standstill in many sectors.

The death toll neared 120 in 22 states from Colorado to Connecticut, and from Texas to the Canadian border. New York and Pennsylvania led in storm fatalities with 15 each.

14-Foot Waves

Waves up to 14 feet harassed shipping off the New England coast. The Coast Guard cutter General Greene was driven ashore on Cape Cod while aiding a disabled tug.

Boston had up to two feet of snow. Providence, R. I., reported an all-time record of 15.6 inches. New York's 14.2 inches was the heaviest since 1948.

Even Dixie was captive to snow and ice, with Atlanta getting its worst winter buffeting in 24 years.

In the Midwest, suffering caused by up to 10 inches of snow was compounded by numbing temperatures that sank to a record low of 18 below zero in Le Mars, Iowa. Wind drifted the snow anew as fast as snowplows cleared highways. South of South Bend, Ind., 40 cars and trucks were trapped on U.S. 31.

Power Failure

In Washington, D. C. snow caused a power failure that plunged Capitol restaurants into darkness, halted all elevators on the House side of the Capitol, and stifled the bells that summon senators for quorum calls on the civil rights filibuster. Congress-

Finch Trial Hits Jury; No Early Verdict Expected

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The long, often-sensational Finch murder trial—a drama of sex and violent death in the suburbs—went to the jury Friday.

The state ended its final arguments by mid-morning with a flourish of rhetoric. Superior Court Judge Walter R. Evans spent an hour instructing the panel of five men and seven women, and they got the case at 12:40 p.m.

Because of the great volume of testimony and argument—more than two million words—the jurors are expected to take several days to make up their minds.

At 4:30 p.m., the jurors ended their first day's deliberations—which, after lunch, totaled only 90 minutes. They were returned in a county bus to their hotel and locked up for the night. They resume deliberating at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Upon their decision rests the fate of the two defendants: Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, wealthy surgeon from suburban West Covina, and Carole Tregoff, 23, his pretty mistress.

Each faces twin charges: murder and conspiracy to murder the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean, 36.

Neither showed emotion as the jurors took over, despite the fact they have been under the trial's strain since last Dec. 8. During instructions, Dr. Finch sat and gazed intently at the judge. Miss Tregoff sat still and frowned.

In instructing the jury the judge listed five possible verdicts:

- Guilty of first-degree murder—penalty: execution or life imprisonment; guilty of second-degree murder—five years to life; acquittal of murder; guilty of conspiracy to commit first-degree murder—execution or life imprisonment; acquittal of conspiracy to murder.

If the verdict is first-degree murder or conspiracy, the same jury will meet later to decide the penalty. If it is second-degree murder, the judge decides the penalty.

The tennis-loving physician, who became rich and prominent in his upper-middle-class town, told a spellbinding story from the witness stand. He said his once-loving wife grew frigid after the birth of their son; that he had a succession of mistresses, the latest, Miss Tregoff, that he and his wife went their separate ways romantically, keeping up the facade of a happy marriage for financial reasons.

The prosecution claims the pair coldly plotted the slaying and, when a hired killer failed them, they did it themselves. The alleged motive: to prevent Mrs. Finch from getting much of the doctor's fortune via divorce.

Elvis Nears Army End

PT. DIX, N.J. (AP)—Sgt. Elvis Presley spent his last few hours in the Army Friday night. Then he's Memphis-bound before resuming the rock 'n' roll road.

The 24-year-old singer spent the final full day of his two-year Army hitch going through his last day's duties. He stripped the sergeant's chevrons from his extra uniforms so they could be used again after he turns them in.

He is due to sign his severance papers and draw his final pay check Saturday morning.

Presley's Army buddies say he is keeping mum about just where he will go when he leaves Ft. Dix about 9 a.m. Saturday. But he told newsmen Thursday that he plans to go home to Memphis, Tenn.

Eisenhower Sees Hard Work Answer

DORADO, Puerto Rico (AP)—President Eisenhower declared Friday only hard thinking and hard work will solve the Western Hemisphere's problems.

He rejected any idea of the United States alone developing a master plan to raise Latin American living standards.

"Panama proposals, facile solutions, will only lead to disillusionment," Eisenhower told the Caribbean section of the American Assembly, a nonpartisan study group in a report on his 10-day, four nation tour of South America. "... Obviously the major responsibility for a nation's development devolves upon its own people, its own leaders."

The President's voice was husky and grew progressively worse as he read his 1,500-word speech at a luncheon at Dorado Beach, a resort owned by Laurence Rockefeller.

Most In S. A.

"If I have to apologize for my voice, I could do so by saying I left most of it in South America," Eisenhower said.

An aide said dust picked up on the South American tour was to blame rather than the President's chronic bronchitis.

Eisenhower took a brief rest after the luncheon and then changed to golf togs for a four-some on the resort's championship course, one of the finest in the Caribbean.

He played in hot, sunny weather with the blue Atlantic glistening nearby. His partners were his son, Maj. John Eisenhower; his old friend Ed Dudley, former golf pro at the Augusta, Ga., national course who is now consultant here; and Rusty Gilbert, Dorado pro.

Needs for mutual cooperation and for self-help were kindred themes in Eisenhower's address before about 200 members of the assembly. As president of Columbia University 10 years ago he helped form this organization to study and discuss vital issues, including Latin America.

Given an ovation as he entered, he spoke against the background of big picture windows providing a spectacular view of surf beating against a rocky shore.

75-100 Seen Dead In Ship Blast

HAVANA (AP)—A French freighter delivering munitions from Belgium to Fidel Castro's Cuban army blew up alongside a Havana harbor pier Friday.

Late Friday night official quarters estimated 75 to 100 persons were killed and 200 injured aboard ship and ashore.

The ship and nearby harbor installation were destroyed by the blast and fire.

The Castro government quickly raised the suspicion of sabotage, and some of its adherents began hinting a sneak light plane raid by Castro's enemies may have set off the blasts.

Prime Minister Castro called an urgent Cabinet meeting, ordered his military and police forces on a standby alert and plunged the nation from gay post-Mardi Gras festivities into mourning.

Move In

Fire-fighters and pier workmen, who moved in for rescue work after the first blast shook the ship in the afternoon, were caught by the second explosion about a half hour later. Some were knocked overboard into the bay.

Other explosions and fires followed on the ship and ashore in a mounting scene of chaos. The first official estimate of 70 to 100 dead and 200 injured came from a government operated TV station.

There was no estimate of property damage along the pier. Experts noted that most of the destruction was in old buildings.

Sweeping flames and a series of explosions wrecked the dockside Panamerican warehouse with a roaring and crackling semblance of wartime battle sounds. A soldier said the warehouse was being used as an arsenal.

The government said it suspected sabotage.

"It looked like a scene from Dante's inferno," said a 21-year-old fireman, Gabriel Delgado.

He was fighting the fire in the rear hold after the first blast and was caught aboard by the second about half an hour later.

"Bodies and pieces of bodies were all over the hold," Delgado said. "There were at least 40 or 50 dead."

"God knows how I escaped. I hid behind anything available. Bullets and shrapnel were flying all around me."

Delgado suffered lacerations of the arms and hands.

An undetermined number of dockworkers were caught in the ship's after hold when the first blast roared up, setting the craft afire.

Impossible

More than three hours after the initial explosion Havana

Police Chief Efigenio Ameijeiras said it was impossible to fix the number of dead and wounded.

Enrique Montero, 53, a clerk in the Pan American dock offices said he was at his desk filling out papers when the first explosion sounded.

"Heavy pieces of equipment fell through our roof and through the second floor down to the first floor where I was working," he said. "I couldn't move. I stayed where I was."

"I saw many people outside running and being knocked down by objects flying through the air," Montero said he was unhurt.

Police Jail 26 Negroes In Breakout

By The Associated Press

POLICE IN Sumter, S. C., jailed 26 Bible-carrying Negro college students Friday as demonstrators against segregated lunch counters continued to spread across the South.

The movement reached Miami, Fla., where eight ministers tried unsuccessfully to break the color barrier in a downtown department store luncheon.

In Nashville, Tenn., state warrants were issued charging 80 students, most of them Negroes, with conspiring to violate the state trade and commerce law by helping direct last Saturday's lunch counter sit-in demonstrations.

Those charged included the Rev. James Lawson, Negro student expelled from the Vanderbilt University Divinity School on grounds he was a leader in the demonstrations.

The students posted bond. Officials said the cases will be presented to the grand jury which meets Monday. Conviction could carry a maximum penalty of 11 months, 29 days in the workhouse or a $1,000 fine or both.

Breach of the peace charges were filed against the 26 students who tried to obtain service at three stores in Sumter. All posted bonds of $100 each.

Agree To Stop

In Columbia, S. C., students from two church - supported Negro colleges, Allen and Benedict, agreed to discontinue for the present their campaign for integrated lunch counters.

Four variety stores in Winston-Salem, N.C., responded their lunch counters after warning that demonstrators would be prosecuted as trespassers. None appeared.

A group of Negro students from Barber-Scotia College in Concord, N.C., held a religious service on the courthouse lawn, ignoring the jeers and catcalls from a group of white youths.

Quakes-Waves Death Toll In Agadir May Hit 12,000

AGADIR, Morocco (AP)—Rescue operations in earthquake-shattered Agadir were ordered to be suspended at midnight Friday, officials announced. The final count of the dead from two quakes a tidal wave, and fire may reach 12,000.

American military units participating in the operations will be withdrawn, an American Embassy spokesman said. Demolition operations were ordered stepped up. The native quarter of the city has been leveled.

Only one weak survivor was pulled from the wreckage during the day.

Not Exaggeration

Crown Prince Moulay Hassan, heir to Morocco's throne who has taken personal charge of the rescue work, said the known dead now total 4,000 and 6,000 more are presumed dead. A final total of 12,000 would not be an exaggeration, he told newsmen at his rescue headquarters three miles outside this once-beautiful resort city on the Atlantic Coast.

Medical teams applied chlorine, DDT, and quinine to the entire city to ward off disease. All workers were equipped with surgical masks.

A tight ring of troops surrounded the city where 40,000 people are crowded. The crown prince said quarantine will be maintained for at least five weeks with the help of 3,700 troops en route to bolster the guard.

Despite fear of disease, U. S. Air Force doctors reported no outbreaks so far. But the odor of death hangs over the city.

"Human hands cannot work any more because of the pestilential smell," the crown prince said. He appeared drawn and tired as he met with newsmen for a few minutes.

In Rabat his father, King Mohammed V, went quietly to prayers and asked his courtiers to join him in praying for the victims. This is the first Friday, the Moslem Sabbath of Ramadan, the Moslem holy month of daytime fasting and devout religious observance.

Thousands of Moroccans living in ragged tent cities on the outskirts of Agadir are still in need of blankets, rescuers said. Sweltering temperatures have hampered rescue work during the day, but the African nights are often chilly.

These thousands of refugees were forbidden to return to search for missing relatives or gather their possessions. Fear of disease was too great. Special passes were required to go into town.

U.S. To Try Next Week 4th Sun-Venus Satellite

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

WASHINGTON—The next attempt to orbit a satellite around the sun and near Venus is now slated for next week.

It will be made with a four-stage THOR-ABLE missile from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has informed the House Space Committee, headed by Representative Overton Brooks (D. La.) that this launching will be between March 8 and 11.

The satellite will be equipped with a solar-powered battery capable of transmitting back to earth from more than 50 million miles in outer space.

This will be the fourth effort to go through with this sun-Venus project. Three other planned firings had to be postponed because of mechanical and other mishaps and failures.

The Space Committee has also been told that the Air Force and Navy are now convinced that the "mystery satellite" circling the globe is Discoverer V.

This was an Air Force launching that was believed to have failed. But after lengthy scrutiny, Air Force and Navy scientists have decided it is Discoverer V. Also that there is a possibility it may re-enter the atmosphere without burning up.

The satellite has a parachute designed to reopen when it returns to the atmosphere, and if that happens, there is the chance the satellite may be recovered.

Daily Lenten Meditation

Colossians 2:1-9

To whom (his saints) God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory. (Colossians 1:27).

A little girl had observed the Biblical figures beautifully portrayed in the stained glass windows of a church. Upon being asked for a definition of a saint, she said: "It is a person with the light shining through." What an apt reply! How well it describes what a Christian ought to be in outward appearance — shining for Jesus, cheerful and serene!

"Christ in you," showing forth His love and compassion in deeds of kindness and sympathy, and seeking to win perishing souls, through faith, unto Himself.

"The hope of glory." What a glorious promise for faithfulness to Him; partakers with Him in spiritual things, with knowledge of the riches of glory in Christ, and participation with Him as the head of all principalities and power!

The love of Christ is the universal cohesive power in the kingdom of God. With Christ in our hearts, we have true fellowship with all saints the world around.

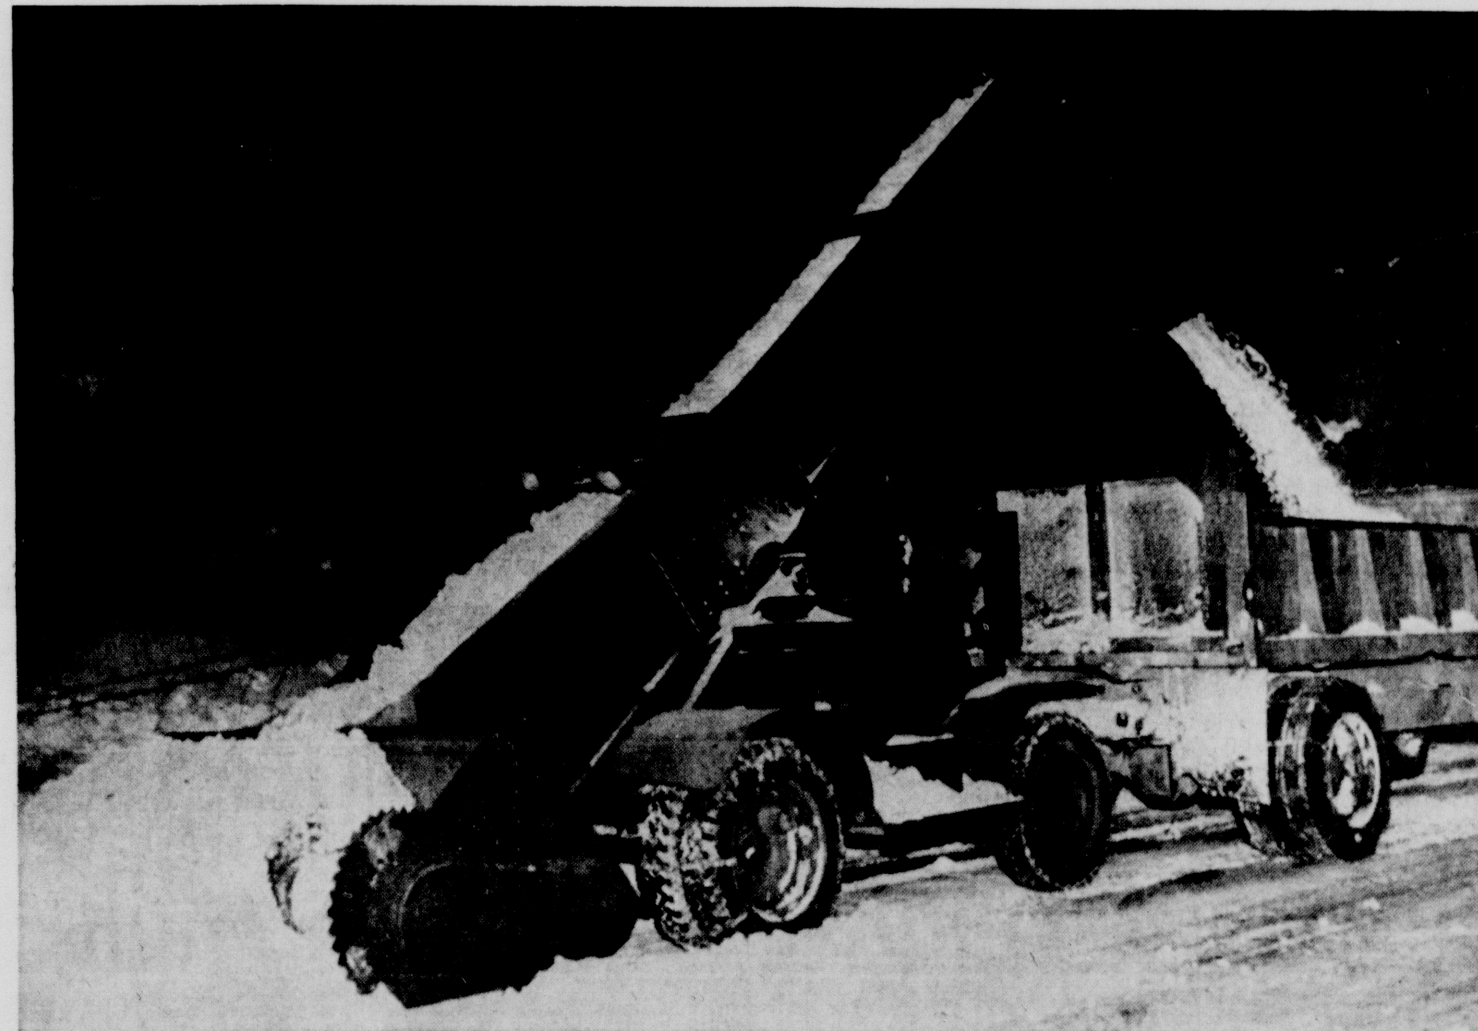

PRAYER: Dear Father, creator and sustainer of the universe, we look to Thee for strength of mind and body to meet the opportunities and problems of this day. May our lives permit Thy presence to shine forth to Thy honor and glory. In the name of Christ, our Saviour, Amen.

Thought For The Day — "If any man serve me, him will my Father honour."

CHECK UP

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter Verses
Sunday	I Corinthians	6 19-20
Monday	Romans	12 3-8
Tuesday	Luke	12 22-30
Wednesday	Psalms	77 11-15
Thursday	Ecclesiastes	3 11-15
Friday	Mark	4 14-25
Saturday	I Corinthians	16 1-2
		13-14

It's a good idea to have a check up every so often. And the idea ought to be extended to our spiritual as well as our physical health.

For instance, how much are we thinking about the truths our churches teach us? Do we understand God . . . His love for men . . . the sacrifice of Christ for our sins . . . the way of Christian living?

And how much are we doing for God and our own souls? Are we worshipping every Sunday . . . rearing our children in the Faith . . . serving the Church and fellowmen according to our talents and physical strength?

And how much are we giving for God to use? Do we promise Him a fair proportion of our income . . . do we set it aside regularly as a sum that belongs to God and to those who need our help . . . do we have the courage and faith to strengthen our Church by more generous support?

Performs Real Service

All Pennsylvanians are indebted, we feel, to a Daily Record columnist whose alertness brought about a 60-day delay and possibly cancellation of the federal directive calling for the use of low-cost foreign products in interstate highway construction.

The Bureau of Public Roads gave notice Dec. 31, 1959 that the directive would go into effect March 1, but apparently the order attracted little attention until last week.

That was when the matter was given wide publicity in the column, "The Pennsylvania Story," written by Mason Denison and appearing in The Daily Record five days a week.

He pointed out that the directive would literally take the food out of the mouths of thousands of Pennsylvania workers, particularly those in the cement, steel and allied industries, and in fact have an adverse effect on the entire economy in the Commonwealth.

Whereupon, Gov. David Lawrence went to Washington, enlisted the support of Sens. Joseph S. Clark and Hugh Scott and Rep. Francis E. Walter, and then prevailed upon Commerce Secretary Frederick H. Mueller to reconsider the order.

The result was a 60-day postponement to give "ample time for considering the possible effect of the directive on Pennsylvania industry and also to consider a legal point raised at the conference."

Purpose of the federal order, of course, is to save money on interstate highway projects on which the federal government pays 90 percent of the costs. It would have required use of foreign materials in bids more than six percent lower than domestic materials bids.

The directive is discriminatory against Pennsylvania, however, because it strikes hardest at two industries centering in this state—steel and cement. Since both are closely allied with the coal and transportation industries, the latter too will feel the impact of any curtailment in the use of domestic products.

Furthermore, the order is discriminatory against all American industry because it does not take into consideration any wage differentials between U.S. and foreign workers. And it gives no heed to problems of unemployment already existing or due to result in this country because of this policy.

We congratulate Gov. Lawrence, Sens. Scott and Clark and Congressman Walter for persuading Commerce Secretary Mueller to postpone the order to May 1 and hope he will either cancel it altogether or amend it so that American industry will not suffer.

And, lastly, we tip our hats to Columnist Mason Denison for bringing to light the frightful implications of the highway materials proviso, thereby adding to the service he has performed for the people of this Commonwealth through his column on many previous occasions. His fearless, non-partisan writings are an essential part of The Daily Record five days a week.

(John) Bull's Eye

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Keep Them Out

Not always are only the great events significant and important. Sometimes little incidents are of equal significance in an understanding of our times.

Some people object to newspapers publishing accounts of murders, rapes, homosexuality and other abominations. But they are wrong. To understand our world, we need to know what is happening in it.

When J. Edgar Hoover, officially as head of the FBI, reports on crime and on the lowering of the median crime age, it is tremendously important.

When such a movement as the Beatniks appears among our youth, it requires analysis and study. When a Communist movement grows strong or recedes, it is needful to approach the problem with understanding.

So when a Canadian actor named Douglas Campbell is reported by "The Telegram" of Toronto to have lost his temper and said of the United States "who wants to go to their lousy country, anyway," it requires something more than a passing smirk at boorishness.

Campbell, it seems, got a job doing Squire Trelawney in "Treasure Island" on TV's DuPont "Show of the Month." He was held up at Toronto because the United States Immigration authorities questioned his permissibility for entrance into the United States. He was told that he had to go to Buffalo to be interrogated. According to the Toronto "Telegram," he said:

"It must be pretty pitiful to live in a country like that."

Of course, nobody has to come to the United States to earn money here. No one is so essential that this country cannot get along without him.

I do not know why the U. S. Immigration authorities held up Campbell's permit or why they subsequently consented to his coming to New York to do a DuPont "Show of the Month." I did not bother to inquire because it is not a matter of importance. The United States will survive a hasty or even a nasty criticism by an actor.

What is significant is that Canadians ought to understand that the attitude of the American people is changing from tolerance of impudence to anger at ingratitude.

We do admit hundreds of Russians who wander about our country, examining all that we do, being shown every hospitality, but we hold up a Canadian because he delivered an address at a Canadian Peace Congress which is, according to the Toronto "Telegram," considered to be Communist-influenced.

The newspaper quotes Campbell as saying that he did not care whether the Canadian Peace Congress was "Communist, Fascist or Martian."

The treatment of visiting Russians and this Canadian appears at first inconsistent and paradoxical. Actually, it is not. Our government has embarked on a People-to-People campaign as regards the Communist world.

Most Americans do not believe in the People-to-People business but they go along with the policy of their government, assuming that someone in it knows what he is doing.

However, when it comes to an individual American or a Canadian or a Britisher who is even suspected of being pro-Communist, the glands get to working, the hackles go up, and somehow one wants to quarrel about it.

This may do great injustice to individuals who get themselves involved in attending meetings and signing petitions, not because they really believe in the dicta of Marx and Lenin but because they suffer a compulsion to oppose conformity or they support the "other side"—which other side does not matter.

They are like social climbers who tolerate association with scum if it is scum from the right side of the tracks.

The antipathy to such men and women in this country is increasing now that they have again asserted themselves in motion pictures and television. For a number of years, they had been quiescent, hiding under false names and even going into other trades.

Now, taking advantage of the valid effort to terminate the Cold War, they are stepping forward, not only disclosing the whereabouts of Russia's friends but their numbers.

Perhaps they are a bit premature. The Cold War is not yet ended. The Summit meetings have not yet taken place. Both sides are still spending their wealth on weapons.

I do not know Campbell's politics, but this is not a lousy country and those who feel that way about us ought to stay away from us—far away. We are tired of being benefactors of those who yelp at us.

Today is Larry Tewksbury's final day at the Stroudsburg Daily Record. Tewksbury will leave Monday for his new post as head of the classified department at Middletown Times-Herald.

Larry's rise to the top berth is phenomenal to say the least. The crew-cut seller of ads had been with the record less than a year and a half before being promoted. However his superiors felt him worthy of a rise in stature as well as pay.

Tewksbury and his missus already have an apartment in the town which also grabbed John Whitehead — ex Stroudsburg football coach—from us.

The other night, the Record staff gave Larry a going away party. All the brass from the departments were there to pay tribute "sarcastically" to the East Stroudsburg High graduate.

His boss until today, Bob Widmer, gave the "eulogy" and presented Tewksbury with presents from his still fellow employees.

One paragraph in Tewksbury's letter of application to Widmer for a position with the Record noted:

"I would like to affiliate with your organization where there is an opportunity for advancement, as a reward for an aggressive and diligent employee. Larry never was so right."

John Munier, the good morning man of Radio Station WVPO has left our midst for another position in Arizona.

The affable short man who looked more like Charley Chan than Cholly and his wife and children will be missed by their many friends in the area.

If you have any time on your hands write a letter of encouragement to Denny Patti who is in the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, recuperating from a knee operation.

Denny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Patti, Portland, is a former football guard at East Stroudsburg High. His action this past season was limited and finally curtailed because of his knee troubles.

Denny is in Room 727 at Jefferson Hospital.

Rolf Peterson, the life of every party in Salt Lake City—in fact, in all Utah—is in cahoots with a writer of an advice-to-the-lovelorn column named Pamela Cardiac. Here's a letter, adds Rolf, Pamela received:

"Dear Pamela: Ever since my husband saw a movie called Moby Dick, he has been driving me to distraction. The movie impressed him so deeply that he went right out and bought a harpoon. He waves it around all the time hollering, 'That she blows!' The other night while I was watching TV he let go of the harpoon and knocked out our picture tube. I'm afraid he'll harpoon me next. What can I do? (Signed) Landlubber."

Pamela answered, "Dear Landlubber: Here's how you can help. Some night when he's sound asleep, holler 'That she blows!' in his ear, rock the bed violently and empty a bucket of cold water over him. When he's fully awake I'm sure he'll have lost a good deal of his enthusiasm for whaling. Meanwhile, be of good cheer but—don't let him have a clear shot at you. (Signed), Pamela Cardiac."

Inside Washington

TV Stimulates Reading Habits

Washington — Government studies show that the popularity of television across the United States has not affected public reading habits. On the contrary, newspaper, periodical and book sales continue to rise at a steady pace.

There was a time when educators and others expressed fears that television would change the nation into a huge mass of illiterates, but time and experience has disproved this.

The government study was made by the Department of Commerce, primarily to determine how the printing industry was faring. It found that television actually has stimulated public reading habits by arousing interest in current affairs and literature.

There is nothing new in the fear that an innovation will adversely affect public reading habits. The government report recalls that around the turn of the century book publishers were worried about the possibility that the craze for bicycles would eliminate reading as a pastime.

Later on the automobile and the motion picture replaced the bicycle as the great threat to reading. Still later came radio, and most recently television.

The fact is that the modern American economy is improving in its rate of productivity all the time, which means that we are producing what we need and want in fewer work hours. The new pastimes are taken out of less leisure time. More and more people have more hobbies and interests outside their work.

The Allen-Scott Report

Plans For Arming Allies

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President Eisenhower has two different plans for making U. S. nuclear weapons directly available to the NATO allies.

These far-reaching proposals, as they are being prepared for submission in the near future to the Joint Atomic Commission, headed by Sen. Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), are:

(1) Give outright to the NATO allies certain so-called "defensive" nuclear weapons with a destructive force limited to 20,000 tons of TNT. These arms would consist chiefly of anti-aircraft, anti-submarine and artillery rocket warheads.

Provide nuclear weapons for NATO planes, naval vessels and ground forces, but keep them under direct U. S. control. This would be done by small special U. S. groups attached to these NATO units.

Defense Secretary Thomas Gates and Atomic Commission Chairman John McCone will personally present these momentous plans to the Joint Committee. Secretary of State Herter will urge their approval in a letter.

In their closed-door talks, Gates and McCone will stress two significant points:

(1) The President wants both proposals to be put into effect, and the authority to resort to them as conditions require. (2) Attorney General Rogers deems additional legislation is needed only for the plan to give nuclear weapons outright to a foreign country. The Atomic Energy Act expressly prohibits that. But Rogers holds this law does not bar the U. S. from providing its allies with nuclear arms so long as they remain under U. S. control.

The Justice Department head will submit a formal legal opinion on this to the Joint Committee.

The "transfer" plan is credited with already having important Joint Committee backing. According to insiders, it's favored by Chairman Anderson.

son, Sens. John Pastore (D., R.I.) and Bourke Hickenlooper (R., Ia.) and Reps. James Van Zandt (R., Pa.), Craig Hosmer (R., Calif.) and William Bates (R., Mass.).

Also former Atomic Commission Commissioner Thomas Murray, now chief consultant of the Committee. Several years ago he submitted this plan to the White House, but nothing was done about it because of the opposition of the late Secretary, John Foster Dulles.

Quiet Scuttling — The Budget Bureau is trying to torpedo the proposal approved by President Eisenhower to equalize retired military pay. The President went out of his way to urge that in his budget message to Congress, and Defense Secretary Gates announced that funds are available for this purpose. But not a move has been made on it as yet in either branch of Congress. Insiders are saying that it is due to undercover Budget Bureau opposition, which is being charged with spreading the word to "forget the matter." General David Shoup, new Marine Corps Commandant, who cracked down on swaggers sticks the day after taking office, has six of them on his Pentagon desk. Grinning, Shoup explains, "They are gifts I never use them. I've got them on display to keep my ideas about them fresh and vivid."

According to the new Naval Academy Alumni Register, more than one-third of those admitted to the famed school since 1840 failed to graduate. Of them, 30 percent failed for academic reasons. The Register lists 29,018 graduates and 10,661 non-graduates. . . . Captain Gohar Ayub Khan, 23-year-old son of the President of Pakistan, is a student at the Ft. Benning, Ga., Infantry Center. After he completes the rigorous 18 weeks' training course, he will return to his unit, the 5th Battalion of the Punjab Regiment.

Another Bloop — Air Force officials face grilling on other material in that training manual which stirred up nationwide controversy over the charge of Communist infiltration of churches.

This new issue is a section expounding the view that the U. S. was tricked into concentrating on giant bombers while Russia developed long-range missiles.

This unnoticed section has been uncovered by Representative Melvin Price (D., Ill.), chairman of the House Armed Services Subcommittee that is probing this and other military manuals. Price will particularly question Air Force authorities on this far-reaching "deception."

At that particular time, General Nathan Twining, now chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was top Air Force officer.

This startling section in the manual, titled "Soviet Deception," is as follows:

"There is evidence to support the view that Soviet displays and statements were made to cause us to invest in weapons that they themselves believed were obsolete. It may be that the Soviet merely built and displayed before Western observers sufficient manned bombers to cause apprehension on our part, with the subsequent embarkation upon a very expensive long-range manned bomber program by us."

"The Soviet may have done all this knowing all the while that they had either in being or projected for the immediate future an adequate defense against manned bombers. If this has been Soviet strategy, then billions of dollars have been invested in aircraft that may never be used in actual combat, and we have spent vast sums of money and natural resources which might have gone for the development of ICBMs and the launching of a satellite before Sputnik, which we definitely had the ability to do."

Opinions Of Other Editors

Developing A River

Development of any river basin which vitally affects the residents of more than two States, and involves navigation as well, becomes so complex that often new ground needs to be turned. Such is the case with the Delaware.

The Army Engineers are working on plans for comprehensive development of the basin. These ideas are also being studied by the Delaware River Basin Advisory Committee. Working with these agencies and also along the lines suggested by the Syracuse University study made public last fall, Senators from the four States in the basin are thinking of the creation of a totally new type of agency.

This would make the Federal government and the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware full partners in development of the river. At the same time the rights of New York City and Philadelphia would be safeguarded.

The proposed commission would be a considerable variation from the plan of the Tennessee Valley Authority, but it would have the power to issue bonds, build reservoirs, develop power, control heavy withdrawals of water and pass upon any construction project that might affect Delaware water.

Since this is moving into an entirely new field, the senators are naturally proceeding with caution. But they realize that the rapid growth of the metropolitan areas of both New York and Philadelphia requires action to conserve water. Up to now no other way to get the job done appears feasible. Thus it is a proposition worth discussing in detail; but not to the extent that it might be talked to death.

Reports From Congress

Wage Fight Looms

By Congressional Quarterly

Washington — Pay raises for millions of American workers are at stake in the Congressional controversy over changing the federal minimum wage law.

Indications are that the long-simmering wage question may boil into one of the big campaign issues of 1960, and several White House aspirants may be singled in the process.

There are two key issues:

(1) Raising the present $1 minimum, unchanged since 1955.

(2) Bringing additional millions under coverage of the law.

In preparing his testimony for the March 2 hearings before the House Labor Standards Subcommittee, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell was faced with some thorny tasks on both fronts.

Mitchell's difficulty stems from a drive by Senate Democratic leaders to increase the compulsory minimum to $1.25, and bring at least six million additional workers under the law. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) is spearheading the campaign, supported by the AFL-CIO. A bill sponsored by Kennedy (S 1046) will soon be reported by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. It would raise the minimum wage of about 6.7 million persons, including many clerks in the big retail stores and service establishments and employees in low-paying industries.

Mitchell Position — Mitchell has long opposed the $1.25 figure, on grounds that, instead of helping many employees in low-wage industries, it would prove so much of a burden to employers that many persons would be fired. In 1959, Mitchell opposed any raise in the minimum whatsoever, and in turn was roundly attacked by organized labor. Mitchell altered his wage position in a report to Congress Feb. 4 of this year. Preparing the way for an increase, he said that his latest surveys showed that the industries most affected by the last minimum wage boost in 1955 had now adjusted to it pretty well. He said a "modest increase" would now be in order, but he intimated that too much of an additional increase in 1960 could place these industries and their workers in real trouble.

While attempting to blunt the Democratic drive for $1.25, Mitchell also has been pressed to defend his own coverage proposals, which bring in about 3.1 million additional Coverage Problem — The coverage problem is one of the most complicated in the minimum wage field. The present law affects only about 24 million of a U. S. labor force of 65 million. Farm workers, executive and professional people and many others are left out, in some cases because they are self-employed, in others because they are not involved in interstate commerce; many are exempted by specific clauses in the law. There have been no substantial changes in coverage since the wage-hour law was first voted in 1938.

Both the Administration and the Democratic leaders have expressed a determination to make 1960 the big year for coverage extension. There are indications that the AFL-CIO, anxious to bring in more members in the retail field, may bargain more strongly for coverage extension than for the full $1.25 minimum, if it comes to a hard choice.

HARRISBURG (AP) — A greater than usual flood threat exists in the Susquehanna River basin, Secretary Maurice K. Goddard of the Forests and Waters Department warned Friday.

The danger is presented in the widespread snow cover which, if there should be a thaw and heavy rain, could cause a flood, Goddard said.

Snow depths range from six inches in the southern valleys of the basin to 40 inches in the higher altitudes of the West Branch.

"We have often had localized snow concentrations greater than this in the basin but such a widespread heavy snow cover is unusual," he said.

Graham Gets Healing Test Bid

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham was challenged Friday to a healing contest to see whether Christianity is more powerful than Islam.

On his return to Nairobi from Ruanda Urundi on his African safari, Graham was handed a letter from the chief of the Ahmadiyya Moslem Mission in East Africa, Maulana Sheikh Mubarak Ahmad.

The letter claimed Islam alone is the living religion on earth today through which man can attain salvation and that Christianity is utterly devoid of any heavenly blessing or true guidance for man.

"I therefore invite you in all humbleness and sincerity for the benefit of the ignorant masses to a contest in which we may demonstrate the truth of our respective claims," it said.

Graham declined comment on the challenge and one of his associates said it was doubtful he would make any reply.

The Philippines were discovered by Magellan in 1521. A month later he was killed in a fight with the natives.

Labor Endorses Red Cross Drive

WHOLEHEARTED endorsement of Red Cross activities and an earnest plea to union members to support the organization's 1960 campaign were made yesterday locally and nationally.

Stuart F. Pipher, president of the local Central Labor Union, urged local union members to support the local fund drive. "We appreciate what the Red Cross has done for many of our members," Pipher said. "The heavy snowfall for the last two days serves to remind us of the outstanding job the local chapter performed during the 1958 snowstorm and the flood of '55."

"The American Red Cross appeal for members and funds for 1960 deserves the unstinted support of the men and women of the AFL-CIO," said George Meany, president. "Whenever disaster has devastated our land, our members pitch in to help Red Cross and are in their turn helped by Red Cross aid."

"Our members and their families, through their local Community Service programs, take part in all activities of the Red Cross. Highlighted this year is the Red Cross Blood Program, which received special commendation in our 1959 Convention resolution."

Key: Participation
"The key to Red Cross support is participation at all levels by union members in the varied phases of Red Cross service. We pledge our active participation in full knowledge of our deep responsibility as citizens in our communities," Mr. Meany concluded.

"On behalf of the AFL-CIO and its 13 and a half million members I wish to pledge total support of the 1960 Red Cross campaign," declared Albert J. Hayes, AFL-CIO vice president and president of the International Association of Machinists. "In one American community after another we see clear evidence of the great value of Red Cross service to all Americans."

Mr. Hayes is vice chairman for labor of the National Red Cross Campaign Committee.

Payroll Deduction
"In many communities our support of Red Cross is given through United Fund programs," Hayes continued. "I particularly want to emphasize the help we can give Red Cross in those communities where Red Cross will be conducting March campaigns. We urge the extension or payroll deduction giving in these chapter areas."

"The Red Cross Program is but one example of direct co-operation between the resources of organized labor and the community needs served through our help. Disaster assistance is another field where our joint efforts help the helpless. To maintain and extend these services we wholeheartedly endorse the 1960 campaign with all of our collective strength."

E-burg Youth At Parley In Harrisburg

GARY KESTER, of East Stroudsburg Joint High School, attended the "Little" White House Conference on Children and Youth in Harrisburg yesterday.

Gov. Lawrence was the main speaker and he covered the problems of children and youth in the state.

He said there are 177 bills before Congress dealing with various matters with youth.

Other points were many young men and women are now sent to training schools. He listed the main cause as the lack of enough probation officers.

"To keep a child in a training school it cost at least $3,650 a year, while the salary of one probation officer is about $4,300 a year. One officer can be responsible for keeping many children from commitment," said the governor.

From this meeting recommendations will be made to the national conference in Washington, D. C., March 27 to April 2.

Russ Hopewell Nears 700 With One Game To Go

RUSS HOPEWELL needs only 14 points against Kings' College tonight to give the East Stroudsburg State College sophomore an even 700 points in two years of varsity ball.

The 8:30 Normal Hill affair, previewed by a junior varsity game, closes the season for Dick Luce's club.

Hopewell scored 274 points as a freshman and in 19 outings this campaign has hit 412 points.

Two Years Left
With two more years of eligibility left, Hopewell is virtually assured of scoring over 1,000 points and has a good chance of breaking the four-year record of 1,412 points, set by Charley German from 1954-1958.

German did not play a full year in his sophomore season.

Hopewell will have to average 356 plus points for the next two years to break the mark, if he gets 14 points tonight. Hopewell, who has averaged 21.6 in 19 games, has no chance to break the single season scoring mark of 546 points this year.

Kelly McLaughlin made the record in 19 games in 1955-1956. That same season he scored 206 field goals, also a single season high.

German Second
German ranks second in single season scoring with 462, a mark Hopewell could have passed this season with a little luck from the free throw line.

When German scored the 462 points in 1957-1958, he hit 160 field goals and a whopping 142 free throws.

Hopewell has bagged 173 field goals this season but only 66 free throws.

A check of scorebooks for the past years shows that it is McLaughlin who holds the single game points mark of 33 and not German. German's best effort was a 38-point job in his freshman year.

Pasko Had 42
Pete Pasko, the Warrior great of the early 40s had a 42-point game but Hopewell topped that with 43 markers against Trenton this season.

McLaughlin only played two years for the Warriors but amassed a fantastic total of 942 points.

If East Stroudsburg can win tonight, it will be the first time this season that they have scored back-to-back victories.

They carry a 6-13 mark into the contest, including a 91-83 opening loss to Kings.

East Stroudsburg's last win over Kings was in 1958 when they won a 76-75 squeaker.

Kings is led by Mike Kwak, a former All-Stater from Nanticoke, who Luce terms, "a fine player, who works the boards well." Some sportswriters have called Kwak, the "best all-around college player in the state."

Palmer Calls Own Stroke Penalty

ARNOLD PALMER made golf news yesterday by calling a penalty shot on himself in the Baton Rouge Open.

Palmer said his ball moved when he cleared away some nearby leaves. But not all golfers are that honest.

The incident brings up the story of the two duffers, who were noted for their lax observance of golfing rules.

It seems that the two were playing a heavily wooded hole when one of them hooked his drive deep into the woods. They searched for several minutes and shortly before the five-minute limit, the ball was found by the duffer that hit it.

The second scraper turned to his caddy and cracked, "That guy cheats more than any golfer I know. How can he find his ball when I've got it in my pocket?"

Penn State Not Afraid Of Total Destruction

The Penn State football team apparently feels that the world is safe from total destruction for at least another six years.

The Nittany Lions have scheduled UCLA for a 1966 game in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Austin Short, assistant football coach at Muhlenberg, has resigned for a position with International Business Machines. He will be replaced by freshman coach Joe Federico.

The Brite Star banquet, originally set for May 21, was shifted to May 14 so that Tom Nugent, University of Maryland football coach, could be obtained as the main speaker.

But Nugent, who averages four speaking engagements a week in the off season, will be unable to make it. An important alumni group booked a dinner the same night as the Brite Star affair.

Stroud Union Building Hoop Powerhouse

Bob Wert, Stroud Union High School basketball coach, should have a water heater in two or three years.

The school's eighth grade team that works out daily, is loaded with talent including Glenn Bishop who probably could have made the junior varsity starting five if he had been eligible this year.

The Pocono Archery Assn. was scheduled to open its Tri-County Conference League tomorrow at Saylorsburg but the event has been cancelled because of the snow.

Teeners Baseball League, with headquarters in Wilkes-Barre, is interested in forming a loop in the Stroudsburg, Easton-Phillipsburg area.

Originally A Nation-Wide Group

Boys 13 to 16 years old are eligible to play in the organization, which last year had 33 leagues and about 5,000 players.

Teeners was originally a national outfit, with teams as far south as Lufkin, Texas. But in 1954 the group decided to operate only in Pennsylvania.

Groups interested in entering a league, can get more information by writing Edward Christian, 50 Jones Street, Wilkes-Barre.

Champ Dodgers Look Like Winners

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one in a series on the major league teams.)

By Walter L. Johns
Central Press Sports Editor

VERO BEACH, Fla.—Walter Alston, the small-townish but successful soul who brought his Los Angeles Dodgers from seventh to a pennant and World Series victory last year, likes to talk about his champions, naturally, but also about his photographic studies of his family and his grandchildren, all made up in book form.

The picture portraits are good, and, looking over the defending champions at this old Navy base, one has to admit they look pretty good, too. Good enough, one might say, so that they are the team to beat.

The Dodgers have something like six or seven dozen players in camp, including 12 catchers and 35 pitchers.

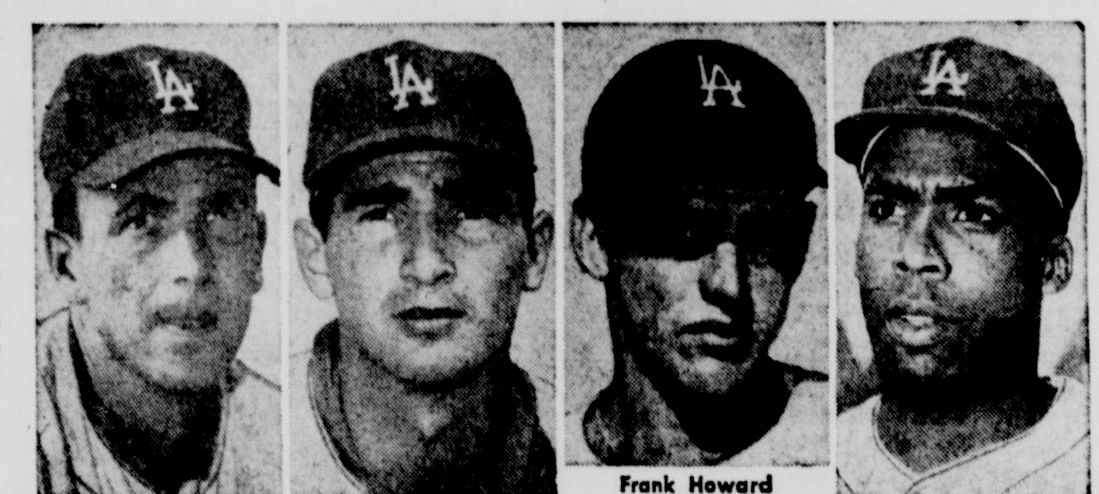

A Few Changes
The hysteria of the World Series victory, the showing of young Larry Sherry and the staggering 3,365,934 attendance of the "Bums" last year are pages in the record book and it's a new year. However, the Dodgers of 1959 probably will remain the Dodgers of 1960, with few changes.

"Our club is pretty well set," said Alston as he reclined in an easy chair on the veranda of this Doo-gertown village. "It's more or less the same ball club but winning the pennant did a lot to help our players, including the youngsters."

"I've heard the old story about the Dodgers getting too old ever since I've been managing but we have a young pitching staff and there are youngsters scattered throughout the regular lineup."

Pitching Potential
"Potentially, we have good pitching but it is erratic, too. We see Sandy Koufax strike out 18 and think he should win 20. And yet he doesn't. They're saying that Sherry was a flash in the pan. I don't go for this for he has real stuff. He'll be just as good as his control is. He has developed a slider and he should be a better pitcher."

"Our club," continued Alston, "can be maneuvered defensively. That Maury Wills surprised me. He has a great arm. I think we need a bit more power and we're going to see if we can get it from Frank Howard."

Ed Roebuck (Pitcher) Sandy Koufax (Pitcher) Frank Howard (Outfielder-First Baseman) John Roseboro (Catcher)

THE SHERRYS—A BROTHER ACT
Norm (left), a catcher, and Larry, pitcher

The big experiment is to try Howard, former Ohio State cage ace who was signed for a reported six-figure bonus in 1959, at first base. He played that spot in the winter league and hit well doing it. If he should win the first base job, Gil Hodges, now the highest-paid player on the club at $39,000, will be used at third or, as a last resort, behind the plate.

Of Howard the Dodger skipper says: "In the near future he's going to be a great hitter. He has lots of power. He is strong and likes to play."

Catching Problems
The Dodger catching has been a bit of a problem but Alston feels that John Roseboro has improved as a receiver and "I still think he will hit."

The Dodgers didn't make any trades during the winter, but there is a wealth of talent available from the farm clubs. High on the list of future possibilities is the $70,000 Mesa, Ariz., high school pitching phenom, Phil Ortega, who won six and lost seven for Bobby Bragan's Triple A Spokane club last summer after he was signed right out of high school.

Of the newcomers, Ed Roebuck, who has been up before but won 13 for St. Paul, is expected to rate a chance to stick as a pitcher. Others being looked at include Scott Breeden, a right-hander who won 11 for Victoria, and Ford Young, another right-hander who won 18 for the same club.

CAPSULE COMMENT
On The Dodgers
Finish last year—First.
Pitching—Young staff, could be good.
Hitting—Oldsters Hodges, Snider and Moon, with Neal and rookie Howard the hoped-for helpers.
Infield—Good.
Catching—Weak, needs hitters.
Overall—Could be team to beat again.

Next—The Baltimore Orioles.

Tom Davis, a Brooklyn resident who hit .345 for Spokane, is an outfield hopeful counted on for future help. His minor league average was surpassed only by the 6-foot 7-inch Howard, who batted .356 for Victoria.

Killer Stole Valuable Papers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Labor Department official testified yesterday that Herman Posner, reform labor union leader slain in Chicago on Feb. 9, was carrying a valise of "incriminating evidence" the night he was killed.

John J. Gilhooley, assistant secretary of labor, gave the Senate Appropriations Committee details of a Labor Department investigation into the slaying. He said whoever killed Posner escaped with the evidence.

Gilhooley disclosed that a reform element in Local 110 of Chicago's Moving Picture Operators Union had complained to the bureau a few days before Posner was killed that the local was "controlled by crooks and racketeers, remnants of the Capone, Bluff mobs."

Posner was killed that night he was killed. He was carrying a valise of "incriminating evidence" the night he was killed.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, news picked up a bit yesterday. At least, announcements trickled in that two of our young musicians are making good in the outside world.

And speaking of the outside world, the Jack Shinnis arrived home, trailing the blizzard behind them from the South, just in time to get snowed in. However they were out yesterday to report that with the Marty Baldwins they had flown to Cuba.

Soldiers patrolled the streets in droves and Madelyn insists she heard the sound of gunfire in the night. In fact, they were so revolution-conscious that when a door slammed in their tour of a Government house, they all jumped.

However, the Cubans themselves and the hotel man really are rolling out the red carpet for the few American tourists brave enough to visit them during these hectic times.

The outside world as represented by Main Street or East Stroudsburg, however, still remains incommunicado as far as I'm concerned. For once the car got snowed in and I got snowed out, and with my little bag in hand I have been seeking refuge within walking distance.

Which until today has been confined to the South Side. Fortunately for me some of the best cooks, most avid bridge players, and pleasantest company can be found within a few blocks radius.

However, with the snow plows diligently at work and a week-end at hand, I'm afraid my excuses are wearing thin—and besides there's the cat—who for some reason always gets more sympathy from the public-at-large during these crises than I do.

No Coats For Butts Wedding 57 Years Ago

It was a beautiful day on March 4, 1903—so warm in fact that the bride didn't have to even wear a coat—and nobody remembers that better than the bride herself, Mrs. Irvin Butts, who with her husband yesterday celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Butts recently resigned, because of his health, from the General Hospital where he had worked for more than nine years, during which he had been "Pappy" to the doctors, nurses and patients alike, always joking and teasing.

Mr. Butts hated to resign and they both still welcome company at their home, 212 North Ninth St., in Stroudsburg.

They have six children, four boys and two girls: Calvin, George, Charles and Ernest and Mrs. Jerome Staples and Mrs. Howard Gussett. They also have nine grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Business Women's Projects To Benefit From Pageant For Miss Pocono Mountains

Mrs. Dorothy Storms, resident of the Stroudsburg Business and Professional Woman's Club, has announced that the organization will benefit from the proceeds of the annual Miss Pocono Mountains Scholarship Pageant to be held this year on Saturday, May 14 in the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State College.

Deadline for entry in the contest is April 1, it was announced by Mrs. Robert Miller, who has produced and directed the pageant for the past six years. Entry blanks will appear in The Daily Record, or may be obtained from Mrs. Miller or members of the Business and Professional Woman's Club.

Already more than $500 has been pledged for the scholarship fund for the pageant which is open to girls who will have reached their 18th birthday prior to the Miss America Pageant next fall. Talent will count for 50 per cent in the judging.

Bathing suit judging will be done at a special luncheon for the contestants and chaperones at Split Rock Lodge, White Haven, on May 14 with the evening dress and talent competition that night at the college.
